POISON KING IS A FAILURE AGAIN

Charlie Wolf, Former Rushville
Painter, Tries to Cut the Life Line.

THIS TIME AT HAMILTON

Drained Bottle of Poison in a Doctor's Office—Will be Sent to Workhouse.

Charley Wolf again! The Suicide King who formerly made Rushville his home and followed the painter's trade here, has had his share of the limelight in the past few years. He has attempted self-destruction no less than twenty times in various cities. A dispatch from Hamilton, Ohio, tells of his last dive for death. It says:

"If Charley Wolf hadn't made so many rough house moves and hadn't cried so pitifully he would be occupying a soft cot in Mercy hospital instead of keeping company by his lonesome in the padded cell at the county jail. Incidentally the work house wouldn't loom up so gracefully before him as it does at present.

"Charley is the fellow who went to Dr. G. M. Cummins' office on North Third street yesterday afternoon to shuffle off. While the doctor was attending a patient in his private office Charley quenched his thirst with some diluted carbolic acid. And then he groaned. The noise attracted Dr. Cummins and when he reached the waiting room he found Wolf sprawled on the floor, unconscious and purring like one of Kelsey Chep's trolley cars.

"The police ambulance removed the victim to Mercy hospital. About the first thing the officers noticed was that there was evidence of more carbolic acid about Wolf's chin and lips than on the interior of his mouth. Wolf remained 'unconscious' for several hours, but Dr. Cummins never was doubtful but that Wolf would recover.

"Last evening Wolf grew bad. He appeared or tried to make himself appear as being about half conscious. He arose from his cot and was going to clear the room of its furnishings. He was put in a straight jacket. And then Charley erred some more.

"His rough house moves resembled those the hospital attaches had seen on other occasions and his cries were so familiar that it wasn't necessary to refer to the hospital catalogue to find their owner. Seeing how Wolf performed and hearing his voice caused the employees to ponder.

"Ah, yes. They had guessed right. The patient was none other than Charley Wolf, the notorious 'Suicide King,' who is not even allowed to peep in Connorsville, Ind., his old home. Wolf was bundled up in a quilt and taken to the county jail and placed in the mad house locker. The police have labelled him for the 'work' charges of loitering and vagrancy having been placed against him.

"Wolf has made so many attempts to cut the life line that it would require an expert accountant to estimate the number of 'bluffs.' This is his third attempt in Hamilton. As an example of Wolf's earnestness to die it may be well to state that he made three attempts in as many weeks in Dayton and it doesn't require much to die in that town."

GROWING WEEDS IS OUR BIG INDUSTRY

New Castle Newspaper Takes a Side-Swipe at Rushville's Enterprise.

THE GREENSBURG TREE AGAIN

The principal manufacturing industry in Greensburg of recent years has been the growing of trees on the court house tower, says the New Castle Times, and it must be confessed the enterprising citizens of that town have achieved a large measure of success as well as fame in that peculiar method of cultivating a forest. Realizing that they must do something to offset this go-ahead and get-to-the-top spirit on the part of their rival county seat, the retired farmers, who comprise the chief manufacturing push in Rushville, have turned their attention to the growing of a new variety of weed, and so great has been their success that the streets of the town present the appearance of a forest of weeds of every hue and of mammoth proportions. This has aroused the envy of the Greensburg editors, who claim that Rushville is trying to force their town to the rear in civic pride and industrial enterprise.

CHARGES ARE OF SERIOUS NATURE

Henry County Man and Woman
Have Had Numerous Difficulties.

VENUED TO LOCAL COURTS

Albert N. Holiday Makes Sensational Charges Against His Wife
In Divorce Complaint.

Possibly the complaints of a wife against a husband and visa versa were never more numerous and of a more serious nature than those contained in the divorce complaint venued here from Henry county and filed in the clerk's office yesterday.

Albert N. Holiday filed suit against his wife, Goldie M. Holiday, and asks for the custody of their young child. He claims that she has refused to live with him, having gone to the home of her mother after he had prepared a home for her and also says in the complaint that she is not a fit person to have in her keeping her own child. He backs his argument by making charges of a serious nature against her.

He alleges that she has been too intimate with a man whose name is mentioned, since living with her mother and has become infatuated and has fallen in love with him. He in the complaint enumerates her acts of indecency and says that he has proof for all of his statements.

In the cross-complaint Mrs. Holiday avers that her husband failed to support her and for that reason she was forced to go to the home of her mother. She makes charges of even a more sensational nature against her husband and asks for the custody of her child and two dollars a week for its support.

The wife complains that during their several years married life her husband was lewd and licentious and that his acts around young women, who visited their house were indecent and had caused storms of comment. She says that he had on numerous occasions become angered and had struck her with his fist, knocking her to the ground. The principles in the affair have resided in Blountsville for the past few years.

LET THE WEEDS TAKE IT.

One man giving advice says not to work in the garden in the morning as dew on the plants should not be disturbed, and not in the heat of the day as it will be liable to kill the plants, and it will do no good in the evening as the weeds dug up will not die. Many are taking the advice.

STRANGE LIGHT IN EASTERN SKY

Attracts Wondering Attention of the People of Rushville at Late Hour Last Night.

THOUGHT IT WAS A BALLOON

Like Huge Ball of Fire it Swayed
Back and Forth in the Heavens.

And strange signs did appear in the heavens! It was about ten o'clock last night that a bright, moving ball of fire was first sighted in the far, low eastern horizon. On the down-town street corners knots of men gathered and discussed the phenomenon—and discussed it from many view points. At first all agreed it was a balloon with a powerful dry battery light. It moved rapidly and seemed to be drawing nearer all the time. A number remained to watch it until an early hour this morning.

Some thought it was a star, behaving rather queerly, others that it was a comet or meteor; and still others that it was some inexplicable supernatural phenomenon. And it did look queer, appearing to be a great ball of fire, swaying and gliding with streaks of light flashing out from it at intervals. Were these appearances real or were they optical illusions?

On investigation today it was learned that the strange light in the eastern sky was the planet Mars.

The planet Mars is now nearing the earth. It rises about 10 o'clock and by the end of the month it will be within 50 million miles of the earth and be very brilliant.

Mars is the first of the exterior planets, its orbit lying immediately without or beyond the earth's. Its fine ruddy complexion and great size at present in addition to its rapid and visible movement from the horizon in the east to a point southwest and high in the heavens by midnight, was the cause for it to be taken for a balloon.

Because Mars is now nearing the earth and in good position for observation, a great deal has recently been published in scientific papers with regard to the practicability of signaling to Mars by means of immense mirrors and other devices.

On account of the parallel lines observed in Mars, which are supposed to be artificial canals, it is conjectured that this planet is inhabited, but many million years older and further advanced in cosmic progress. But whether there are the equivalents of human eyes and telescopes on Mars to observe the proposed signaling from earth, is another question.

Like Mercury and Venus, Mars is pre-historic as to discovery. With even a small telescope it is a beautiful object, having a very attractive surface diversified with light and dark markings. At the poles there are white patches called polar caps that are thought to be masses of snow and ice. These polar caps vary in size with the progress of the season on Mars. At the close of the Martian winter the caps are largest, and they gradually diminish in size as the summer progresses.

The most remarkable feature of the planet is a number of straight lines called canals, alluded to above, crossing it in all directions. These markings are feint and difficult to observe. It has been assumed that Mars is inhabited, and that the lines on its surface are the work of intelligent beings. It is supposed that the water upon Mars has diminished to such an extent and that the planet is drying up, and the inhabitants have been compelled to inaugurate an artificial distribution of the remaining water over the planet, hence the numerous canals.

It is doubtful, however, about there being life of any kind on Mars. It receives only about half as much heat from the sun as we do. Its atmosphere is much less dense than on the earth. Its diameter is 4200 miles and its volume only one-seventh that of the earth's. Gravity is much less there than here, and Mars is farther advanced in its history than is the earth.

LOCAL MAN BUYS THE ELEVATORS

Frank Mull Closed Deal For the
Burt Claim of Elevators
Monday.

PRICE IS NOT MADE PUBLIC

Management Will Not be Changed—
Elevators are Located at Manilla
Morristown and Gwynneville.

The deal for the elevators located at Morristown, Gwynneville and Manilla, which has been pending for several days, was closed Monday. By the consummation of the deal Frank A. Mull of this city is the new owner and the elevators will be run under the name of the F. A. Mull Grain company.

The Shelbyville Republican says of the change:

"The elevators belonged to the estate of M. C. Burt, who died at his home in Rushville a few days ago, and when they were placed on the market this paper carried an advertisement concerning them. Mr. Mull is a close friend of the Burt family, and is well and favorably known in all of the communities where the elevators are located. He is a brother of Thomas K. and Leonidas H. Mull, of Manilla, and is at present making his residence at his summer home, Green Gable, one of his farms north of Manilla. Mr. Mull will not change the management of any of the elevators and will conduct the business on somewhat the same basis as was done under the Burt management. By his associates he is regarded as an excellent business man and will no doubt make a success of the new venture. The price paid was not made public."

Secretary to Rushville Driver Getting Ready For Trip Down the Big Circuit.

DALE DOWN TO BRASS TACKS

O. M. Dale, broker and real estate agent, will spend his summer vacation on the race courses. He has signed articles with Harrie Jones to officiate as secretary to the Rushville driver, and is having his name put on his trunk with brass tacks and sewed in red letters on a blanket he will take along. Dale promises to make some of the book worms rub before he quits the circuit and in event he gets too hot under the rubber collar, the blanket will be used on him when they lead him around under the trees to cool him off. Dale knows more about horses now than you can find in one issue of the Western Horseman. He is trying to trade a Blinkenderfer typewriter for a stop watch, and if the stable shows the speed expected he will take along enough currency to paper a room.

good health, with its blessings, must understand, quite clearly, that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best, each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to living aright. Then the use of medicines may be dispensed with to advantage, but under ordinary conditions in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time and the California Fig Syrup Co. holds that it is alike important to present the subject truthfully and to supply the one perfect laxative to those desiring it.

BOSTON RECORD IN ADAMS CASE

Was Married In "the Hub" In 1885, According to This.

ALSO MARRIED AT LOGANSPOET

All Doubt Has Been Cleared Up as to the identity of the Indianapolis Frank R. Adams, whose wife committed suicide and the Frank R. Adams whose supposed wife lives at Delaware, O.—Copy of Page From the Boston City Registrar Furnishes Link in Interesting Chain.

Delaware, O., July 20.—Several days ago all doubt was cleared up that the Frank R. Adams who has a supposed wife in this city, is the same Frank R. Adams whose supposed wife committed suicide at the Pasadena flats in Indianapolis. Then it was thought here that the woman who killed herself in Indianapolis was not his wife, though she passed as such. The records at Logansport established the fact that he had really married her in March, 1904, and then it was supposed either that he had deceived her into a mock marriage or that the supposed wife in Delaware had never been married to him, though this latter was hard to believe. It is established now beyond doubt that he did marry the Delaware wife in Boston in 1885.

Chief of Police Spaulding of this city has received a message from Chief of Police Pierce of Boston, Mass., as follows:

"From the records of the city registrar, old courthouse, Nov. 26, 1885, one Frank R. Adams, giving residence as Boston, was married to Anna F. Rice, aged twenty-five, giving residence as Boston, by John E. Atkins, justice of the peace. It was the second marriage for Anna F. Rice. Her name before her first marriage was Anna F. Magrath."

This established the identity of the Delaware Mrs. Adams as the woman who married Adams in Boston. Her name is given in the Delaware city directory as Anna F. Adams, and her maiden name is known here to have been Magrath.

Jeffersonville, Ind., July 20.—Clark Lodge Free and Accepted Masons of Jeffersonville loses $100,000 by the birth of a child to Mrs. J. F. Deshon of this city.

The money represents the value of a farm in Franklin county, Kentucky, which James A. Holt, a member of the lodge willed it, provided Mrs. Deshon and another niece should die without issue. However, the lodge holds a portion of the estate in trust and will after ten years build an orphan's home from the accrued interest, according to Mr. Holt's will.

PATRICK CALHOUN IS ON TRIAL AGAIN

Little Attention Being Paid to Second Hearing.

San Francisco, July 20.—On a charge of offering a bribe to a public official to gain a privilege for his corporation, Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railways, is again on trial here. Half of the day had been devoted to interrogation of prospective jurors when the first panel of twenty-five citizens was exhausted without any being chosen, and an adjournment taken until Wednesday.

Except for the absence of three or four notable principals and the presence of District Attorney W. H. Langdon as chief prosecutor, the proceedings differed little from the early stages of the first trial, which lasted five months and resulted in a disagreement just four weeks ago.

Assistant District Attorney Heney, it is expected, will assume charge of the case when he returns from his trip to Alaska. In contrast to the closing days of the first case, there were not a dozen spectators in court.

NO SERVICE PERFORMED

Yet Heney Got His $23,000
Just the Same.

TAWNEY'S FRANK ADMISSION

Inquiry in Congress Reveals a State of Things That Brought Out Some Sharp Remarks Centering About the Employment of Francis J. Heney by the Government—It Is Disclosed That For No Services Rendered Heney Last Year Received the Sum of $23,000 and Has Received $69,000 in All.

Washington, July 20.—The frank admission has been made by Chairman Tawney of the appropriations committee in the house that Francis J. Heney, special counsel of the department of justice and also assistant prosecutor in the so-called graft cases in San Francisco, received from this government last year $23,000 for which he performed no service.

"How much did Heney receive during the year 1908?" demanded Mr. Murphy (Dem., Mo.) "and what service did he perform?"

Mr. Tawney—"He received $23,000 and performed no services for the government whatever during that year." Subsequently Mr. Tawney said: "As a matter of fact, Mr. Heney has not performed any active service for the last three years. He was appointed Nov. 7, 1903, and his active service continued for about three years, and for which he received in all $69,000."

Mr. Tawney stated, however, that Mr. Heney's salary had nothing to do with the $27,000 deficiency for the department of justice for which provision is made in the urgent deficiency bill. Mr. Heney, he said, had received in all from the government, $69,000.

Asked by Mr. Cox (Ind.) if any of this deficiency was due to the employment of special counsel to prosecute any trust, Mr. Tawney, answering in the affirmative, said the suit against the tobacco trust had occasioned some of it. Mr. Bennett (N. Y.) added that the prosecution of the turpentine trust also was responsible for part of it.

Mr. Clark (Mo.) denounced the appointment of incompetent district attorneys, necessitating, as he said, the employment of special counsel. The practice had grown into a fad, he said, and an expensive fad. He declared that if there had been a competent district attorney or two in the west there would not have been so much stealing of public lands.

Mr. Mann (Ill.) said Mr. Heney needed no defense. "The only people opposed to him," he remarked, "are those who sympathize with some of those who have been accused if not convicted of graft."

Mr. Burke (Pa.) called the Illinoisan to order, saying that Mr. Mann's admission that Mr. Heney needed no defense disposed of the necessity of consuming the house's time.

"I am glad," said Mr. Mann, "that only one member and he from the great and pure state of Pennsylvania, is opposed to Mr. Heney."

Fearful that Mr. Heney would get a further allowance, Mr. Fitzgerald offered an amendment prohibiting it. Smarting under Mr. Mann's sarcastic reference to Pennsylvania as "a great and pure" state, Mr. Burke charged that he had been placed in the position of denouncing a competent and earnest public officer. He had objected, he said, because Mr. Mann was abusing the privileges and patience of the house.

The suggestion of Mr. Mann he characterized as gratuitous. "But I want to say," he remarked with some warmth, "that when the great and pure state of Pennsylvania wishes to have its politics or its moral tone improved it will not go to the gentleman from Illinois, the state of Illinois or the city of Chicago, from which the gentleman hails."

The Fitzgerald amendment was voted down, as was one by Mr. Cullop (Ind.) prohibiting the payment of any part of the deficiency appropriation toward the employment of special counsel to assist in extraditing Delavan Smith of the Indianapolis News or Joseph Pulitzer of the New York World in connection with the government's libel suits growing out of the Panama canal purchase. There were several lively tilts, one of which culminated in an announcement by Mr. Macon of Arkansas that he would resign his seat if it could be proved that he was a legislative obstructor. The air was surcharged with crimination and recrimination.

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine of known composition and with a record of 40 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

FOR MAYOR.

We are authorized to announce the name of W. O. Headlee as a candidate for mayor of the city of Rushville, subject to the decision of the Republican city nominating convention.

The Insurgents.

Some insinuations have appeared in some of the Washington dispatches which an Indiana Republican is bound to disbelieve. They are to the effect that the President has found fault with the insurgent senators for their strenuous opposition to the Aldrich program of tariff revision. That is impossible. Those senators have been fighting his battle. They have been standing up for the platform of his party with the interpretation which he put upon it. They have been endeavoring to make good his promises to the country.

It may be admitted that he was justified in abstaining from personal interference during the progress of the bill; but that he would expect his friends, the supporters of his declared views on tariff reform to submit without resistance—all the resistance they could offer to the domination of the Senate Finance Committee is too absurd to be thought of. It was their duty to make the fight and make it stubbornly. The Republican party is in the midst of a great crisis. It is in danger of going fatally wrong. The stand-patters will wreck it if they have their way. The struggle over the tariff bill is only a day's fight in the battle of Armageddon. Aldrich is the generalissimo of the allied forces of the "Interests." (What a meaning that word has come to have.) To let him have an unopposed victory today would strengthen him mightily for tomorrow.

Some timid souls are scared at the thought of party subordination. But that is not it. The platform in its true spirit and meaning, is the party constitution. To stand up for it is the highest loyalty. To follow a party banner blazoned REFORM is glorious; to cringe under a party whip is ignoble. All honor to the insurgents! They have made a splendid fight. We know not what is in store for us, but unless we are doomed to disasters untold, it will be seen later that they were the vanguard of the army of progress. R. S. T.

There are a few charities at Indianapolis that it is well to contribute to when solicited, but there are a host of other so-called charities that should be promptly turned down, as charity in these cases should always begin at home. There is scarcely a day some person with a blank book, paper or petition from Indianapolis comes to Rushville, with all the necessary affidavits that they are duly authorized to collect from the public for this, or that, or other thing, many objects the people never heard of and that they will never hear of again. It is no charity to give to these people and it is about time that Rushville people should begin to discourage the impression that they are easy marks.

STATION WILL BE AT CONNERSVILLE

Preparations Being Made for Motorcycle Endurance Contest to be Held in August.

OVER ONE HUNDRED ENTRIES

"Devil Chasers" Will Pass Through Here on Afternoon of August 11th at Rapid Gait.

Of the much talked-of motorcycle endurance contest which will pass through here on the afternoon of August 11, the Connorsville News says:

G. H. Hamilton, chairman of the committee on the Eighth Annual Endurance and Reliability Run for Motorcycles, has completed the work of laying out the course from Cleveland to Indianapolis.

The run is to start at the Hollenden Hotel, Cleveland, Ohio, on the morning of August 10. The first day's run will terminate at Columbus, Ohio, via Wooster, Coshocton and Newark, making the distance 173.3 miles. The first checking station in the morning will be at Wooster, Ohio. Coshocton will be the noon control. The afternoon checking point will be at Newark, Ohio.

The second day's run will be from Columbus, Ohio, to Indianapolis, via Springfield, Ohio; Dayton, Ohio; Richmond, Liberty, Connorsville, Rushville and Indianapolis, a distance of 188.1 miles. The checking station for the second day will be Dayton, Ohio, for the forenoon and Connorsville in the afternoon, Richmond being the noon control.

The judges and flagmen chosen for the Connorsville checking station are as follows: Judges, C. S. Roots, J. C. Phelan and Bert Adams; flagmen, D. Fitzpatrick, M. H. Hassett and O. L. Beeson.

A representative of the F. A. M. of Indianapolis will be here on that date.

It is expected that there will be from 100 to 150 entries in the endurance run, representing practically every make of motorcycle on the market. The entries will be restricted to amateurs riding motorcycles, the engines of which do not have a total piston displacement exceeding sixty-one cubic inches, and which are not provided with auxiliary parts, but which are provided with efficient mufflers and full road equipment, which must conform in every respect to catalogue specifications.

Ollie Brown and Carl Harris Pitched Twenty-Three Loads of Hay

LAST SATURDAY AFTERNOON

The story of the strong man doing the work of two men published recently has rought forth numerous giants in all parts of the county and if the reports are all true, within the next few years men will be wanting for work if there are so many who can do the work of two men.

Now comes the story from the southwestern portion of the county that two men pitched twenty-three loads of hay Saturday afternoon. It is a shame that they did not either put on one more load or one less load as the number is sure to prove their Jonah. The Two young men were Ollie Brown and Carl Harris, and they were working on the Moll farm. They began immediately after dinner and stopped at supper time.

THAT PARRY FACTORY.

The Connorsville Courier, in publishing the Parry automobile story from the Rushville Republican, says in bold head lines that one has to go away from home to learn the news. It also adds the following:

"The Courier has been in possession for several days of the essential facts contained in the following article taken from Friday's Rushville Republican. We refrained from giving them publicity, out of deference to a request from local capitalists who feared a premature announcement might embarrass pending negotiations. Mr. Parry is an ex-citizen of Connorsville, and it was in the manufacturing business in this city that he laid the foundation of his splendid success and great fortune. In addition to the acquisition of this great manufacturing concern, if it comes, we will be delighted to welcome the return of Mr. Parry."

OIL MAN STORY.

A man from Rushville who has had contracts for oiling streets in that city was here, says the Connorsville News, conferring with the Free Fair committee in regard to oiling the road from the city to Roberts Park. The cost would exceed one hundred dollars and the committee will probably not consider it, but there are many owners of hacks and others who would be greatly benefited by having the dust laid, and if an outside movement were set on foot the money might be raised. Many people take the train which only brings them a part of the way in order to avoid the insufferable dust where so many teams are passing.

IMPERILED LIVES OF PASSENGERS

Flange on Locomotive Wheel Broke But Disastrous Wreck Was Fortunately Averted.

FIREMAN WAS READY TO LEAP

The south-bound afternoon passenger train on the J. M. & I. had a narrow escape of being wrecked as it neared Shelbyville yesterday afternoon. The train was behind time when it left Rays Crossing and was running sixty miles an hour when the flange on a locomotive wheel broke and the pilot dropped to the rails. The fireman made ready to leap for his life, as he fully expected the train would be wrecked as it passed over the Big Four crossing at Shelbyville. The engineer stuck to his post and piloted the train safely over the crossing, bringing it to a stop soon afterwards. All the passengers were aware of impending danger from the sudden stop of the train.

A well balanced program is offered at the Vaudeville tonight including "Uncle Tom Wins" and "An Unsuccessful Substitution." The second picture is a scream, depicting an unusually funny series of incidents. In addition to the regular program the Thomas sisters will appear in several musical numbers. Earl Robertson will sing "Did He Run."

The Star-Grand and Palace theaters will not change their pictures but three times a week in the future, Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights. The managers promise to get a better line of pictures in the change.

The Vaudeville theater employees gave a street parade today advertising their special program for tonight.

Good crowds were in attendance at the Palace theater last night. The same pictures will be shown tonight, together with the same song.

Experience of Young Lad on Fast C.

WAS RIDING ON CROSS-BAR

Foot Caught in Crossing and Snapped Bone in Two—Held on For His Life.

Carl Hahn, 18 years old, giving his residence as Hamilton, Ohio, is at the Fayette sanitarium, suffering from a broken leg as the result of riding the cross-bar of a sleeping car on the C. H. & D. passenger train that arrived in this city at 1:11 this morning, says the Connersville Courier.

Young Hahn and a companion named Lenord Kruthant crawled under the train at Hamilton and mounted the cross-bar or brake beam intending to ride as far as the train would take them. All went well until the train reached Liberty, when for some cause young Hahn let his foot down from the cross-bar and when the train passed over the crossing at Liberty his foot caught and the result was the young man's right leg was broken between the knee and ankle. The train not making any stops until it reached this city, the young man was compelled to hold on while the train sped on its way, for to let go meant sudden death. It was a thrilling experience, yet as the train was a fast one it was not long until this city was reached. When the train stopped the young man was taken from it and removed to the depot where he was made as comfortable as possible. At an early hour this morning he was resting easy.

HORSE NOTES

The fair association has also secured Richard Wilson of Rushville, as the starter of the harness races this year, says the Shelbyville Republican. Mr. Wilson is well known to horsemen all over the State and his time will be well taken up until the close of the racing season. Last year was his first season as a professional starter, and he made good from the start. He knows the game from A to Z, and at several places where he officiated last year he has been engaged for this season. He has only a few open weeks, and before the season is very old, he will undoubtedly be doing a "continuous performance" if he cares for so much work.

Betker Tells Of Auto's Soul

When Dora Betker is not gasoline gallivanting, he is sitting around reviewing the trip he has just made. It is doubtful if ever a more enthusiastic motorist ever cranked a machine. Last night he had his usual Sunday evening school gathered about him listening to the narrow and harrowing escapes he had last week with John Buck Tompkins at the wheel. There's some class, poetry, sentiment and deep thought in the closing remarks of the evening which he made before he put the lights out and after his wife had phoned him three times to "come on home." Betker said:

"I'll be da'gone if I didn't used to think I'd rather have a horse. Seemed to me that there was nothing to a da'gone big automobile—just a great chugging, crude and rude concoction of wheels within wheels—just machinery, da'gone. But I've changed my mind. I'll tell you fellows, I'll be da'gone, if it 'aint great to sit down to a machine and run it. It's almost human. Da'gone, if she won't send a thrill over you. Da'gone, there's the machine just panting and breathing like if it were alive; it'll answer every impulse, as it were. Da'gone, if the darn thing isn't emotional, when you figure it out. It gets cranky, stubborn and peevish, and then again it has its good moments and will do anything you call on it to do—and shows the best disposition. I'm pretty strong on automobiles just now. But I could make a great improvement on them. Some of these days I might show you a few new things."

And he probably will. He never sees anything but what he thinks he can improve on it. He is encouraged in this by a number of improvements he has made on big inventions, such as Edison's phonograph, a new breed of gold fish, an order blank for Armour & Co., and a new wrinkle on the cash register.

Give that horse one package of Daniels' Renovator. His eye will brighten, his coat improve, his appetite make him eat like he never ate before. He will be a new horse, and work like a horse ought to. Try one 50 cent package. If not satisfied, your money refunded.

CHAPTER XII. THE LANTERN ABOVE.

CHASE sat for hours on his porch that night gazing down upon the chateau. Lights gleamed in a hundred of its windows. The bitterness of his own isolation, the ostracism that circumstance had forced upon him, would have been maddening on this night had not all rancor been tempered by the glorious achievement in the market place. He wondered if the princess knew what he had dared and what he had accomplished in the early hours of the night. He wondered if they had pointed out his solitary light to her—if now and then she bestowed a casual glance upon that twinkling star of his. The porch lantern hung almost directly above his head.

The chateau was indeed the home of revelry. The pent up, struggling spirits of those who had dwelt therein for months in solitude arose in the wild stampede for freedom. All petty differences between Lady Deppingham and Drusilla Browne, and they were quite common now, were forgotten in the whirlwind of relief that came with the strangers from the yacht. Mrs. Browne's good looking, eager husband reveled in the prospect of this delicious night, this almost Arabian night. He was swept off his feet by the radiant princess, the Scheherezade of his boyhood dreams. His blithe heart thumped as it had not done since he was a boy. The Duchess of N. and the handsome Marchioness of B. came into his tired, hungry life at a moment when it most needed the light. It was he who fairly dragged Lady Agnes aside and proposed the banquet, the dance, the concert—everything—and it was he who carried out the hundred spasmodic instructions that she gave.

Late in the night, long after the dinner and the dance, the tired but happy company flocked to the picturesque hanging garden for rest and the last refreshment.

The hanging garden was a wonderfully constructed open air plaisance suspended between the chateau itself and the great cliff in whose shadow it stood. The cliff towered at least 300 feet above the roof of the spreading chateau, a veritable stone wall that extended for a mile or more in either direction.

Near the chateau there was a real waterfall, reminding one in no small sense of the misty veils at Lauterbrunnen or Glesbach. The swift stream which obtained life from these falls, big and little, ran along the base of the cliff for some distance and was then diverted by means of a deep, artificial channel into an almost complete circuit of the chateau, forming the moat. It sped along at the foot of the upper terrace, a wide torrent that washed between solid walls of masonry, which rose to a height of not less than ten feet on either side. There were two drawbridges, seldom used, but always practicable. A small stationary bridge crossed the vicious stream immediately below the hanging garden and led to the ladders by which one ascended to the caverns that ran far back into the mountain.

Two big black irregular holes in the face of the cliff marked the entrance to these deep, rambling caves, wonderful caverns wrought by the convulsions of the dead volcano, cracks made by these splintering earthquakes when the island was new.

The garden hung high between the building and the cliff, swung by a score of great steel cables. These cables were riveted soundly in the solid rock of the cliff at one end and fastened as safely to the stone walls of the chateau at the other. It swung stanchly from its moorings with the constancy of a suspension bridge and trembled at the slightest touch.

It was at least a hundred feet square. The floor was covered with a foot or more of soil, in which the rich grass and plants of the tropics flourished. Cool fountains sprayed the air at either end of the green inclosure. The illusion was complete.

The walls surrounding the garden were three feet high and were intended to represent the typical English garden wall of brick. To gain access to the hanging garden one crossed a narrow bridge which led from the second balcony of the chateau. There was not an hour in the day when protection from the sun could not be found in this little paradise.

charges off into the horizon like a bird that has no home. May I offer you a cigarette, princess? By the way, I wonder how Chase came off with his side show."

"Saunders tells me that he was near to being butchered, but luck was with him," said Deppingham. "His ship came home."

"It was a daring trick. I'm glad he pulled it off. He's a man, that fellow is," said Browne. "See, princess, away up there in the mountain is his home. There's a light. See it? He keeps rather late hours, you see."

"Tell me about him," said the princess suddenly. She arose and walked to the vine covered wall, followed by Bobby Browne.

"I don't know much to tell you," said he. "He's made an enemy or two, and they are trying to drive him out. We've asked him down here just because we can't bear to think of a fellow creature wasting his days in utter loneliness, but he has so far declined with thanks. The islanders are beginning to hate him. They distrust him, Britt says. Of course you know why we are here. You?"

"Every one knows, Mr. Browne. You are the most interesting quartet in the world just now. Every one is wondering how it is going to end. What a pity you can't marry Lady Agnes!"

"Oh, I say!" protested Browne. She laughed merrily.

"But how dull it must be for Mr. Chase! Does he complain?"

"I can't say that he does. Britt—that's my lawyer—Britt says he's never heard a murmur from him. He takes his medicine with a smile. I like that sort of fellow, and I wish he'd be a little more friendly."

"He has learned to know and keep his place," said she coolly. Perhaps she was thinking of his last night in the palace garden. Away up there in the darkness gleamed his single, lonely, pathetic little light. "Isn't it rather odd, Mr. Browne, that his light should be burning at 2 o'clock in the morning? Is it his custom to sit up?"

"I've never noticed it before, now you speak of it. I hope nothing serious has happened to him. He may have been injured in— I say, if you don't mind, I'll ask some one to telephone up to his place."

"Yes, do telephone," she broke in. "I am sure Lady Deppingham will approve. No, thank you. I will stand here awhile. It is cool, and I love the stars." Five minutes later he returned to her, accompanied by Lady Agnes. She was still looking at the stars.

"Lady Deppingham called him up," said Bobby.

"And he answered in person," said her ladyship. "He seemed strangely agitated for a moment or two, Geneva, and then he laughed—yes, laughed in my face, although it was such a long way off. I asked him if he was ill or had been hurt. He said he never felt better in his life and hadn't a scratch. He laughed—I suppose to show me that he was all right. Then he asked me to thank you for bringing a warship. You saved his life. Really one would think you were quite a heroine or a goddess or something like that. I never heard anything sweeter than the way he said good night to me. There!"

The light in the bungalow bobbed mysteriously for an instant and then went out.

"How far is it from here?" asked the princess abruptly.

"Nearly two miles as the crow flies, only there are no crows here. Five miles by the road, I fancy. Isn't it, Bobby? I call him Bobby, you know, when we are all on good terms. I don't see why I shouldn't if you stop to think how near to being married to each other we are at this very instant."

"I wonder if help could reach him quickly in the event of an attack."

"It could if he'd have the kindness to notify us by phone," said Browne.

"But he wouldn't telephone to us," said Lady Deppingham ruefully. "He's not so communicative as that."

"Surely he would call upon you for help if he?"

"You don't know him, Geneva."

The princess smiled in a vague sort of way. "I've met him quite informally, if you remember."

"I should say it was informally. It's the most delicious story I've ever heard. You must tell it to Mr. Browne, dear. It's all about the enemy in Thorberg. Mr. Browne. There's your wife calling, Bobby. She wants you to tell that story again about the bishop who rang the doorbell."

The next morning the captain of the King's Own came ashore and was taken to the chateau for dejeuner. Late in the afternoon the marquis and his party, saying farewell to the princess and the revived legates, put out to the yacht and steamed away in the wake of the great warship. The yacht was to return in a month to pick up the princess.

Geneva, her maids, her men and her boxes, her poodle and her dachshund were left behind for the month of March—not without misgiving. It must be said, for the marquis, her uncle, was not disposed to look upon the island situation as a spot of long continued peace.

"You won't be able to get help as cleverly and as timely as that American chap got it last night," protested the marquis. "Warships don't browse around like gulls, you know. Karl will never forgive me if I leave you here."

"Karl is of a very forgiving nature, uncle, dear," said Geneva sweetly.

"He forgave you for defending Mr.

"I hope no harm comes to you here in this beastly place!"

Chase, because you are such a nice Englishman. I've induced him to forgive Mr. Chase because he's such a nice American—although Mr. Chase doesn't seem to know it—and I'm quite sure Karl would shake his hand if he should come upon him anywhere. Leave Karl to me, uncle."

And so they sailed away without her, just as she had intended from the beginning. Lord Deppingham stood beside her on the pier as the shore party waved its adieus to the yacht.

"By Jove, Geneva, I hope no harm comes to you here in this beastly place!" said he, a look of anxiety in his honest eyes. "There goes our salvation if any rumspus should come up. We can't call 'em out of the sky as Chase did last night. Lucky beggar! That fellow Chase is ripping, by Jove! That's what he is. I wish he'd open up his heart a bit and ask us into that devilish American bar of his."

"He owes us something for the warship we delivered to him last night," said Bobby. "He has made good with his warship story, after all, thanks to the King's Own and Britt."

"And the fairy princess," added Lady Deppingham.

"I am doubly glad I came if you include me in the miracle," said Geneva, shuddering a little as she looked at the lounging natives. "Isn't it rather more of a miracle that I should come upon mine ancient champion in this unheard of corner of the globe?"

"I'd like to hear the story of Chase and his adventures in the queen's garden," reminded Bobby Browne.

"I'll tell it to you tonight, my children," said the princess as they started for the palanquins.

Hollingsworth Chase dodged into the American bar just in time to escape the charge of spying.

Naval Board Reopens Inquiry as to Cause of Tragedy.

LIEUT. ADAMS ON THE STAND

Classmate of Young Officer Who Admits Having Had a Fight With Sutton, but Who Says the Latter Took His Own Life, Subjected to Grilling Examination in Naval Court—Discrepancies Revealed Between Present and Past Testimony—Counsel for Sutton's Mother Hints at Evidence to Disprove Suicide Story.

Annapolis, Md., July 20.—The court of inquiry is conducting a second investigation into the death of Lieutenant James Nettle Sutton of the United States marine corps.

Lieutenant Robert E. Adams, Sutton's former classmate at the academy and one of the principal actors in the midnight fight which cost young Sutton his life nearly two years ago, occupied the witness stand during the entire session and told a graphic story of the incidents leading up to Sutton's death. With nervous demeanor, momentarily confused at times, and yet almost defiant under the severe cross-examination of Henry E. Davis, counsel for Mrs. Sutton, the young officer sat facing Sutton's mother and sister.

His brother officers, Lieutenants Bevan and Osterman, flanked by Adams's two lawyers, sat farther down the inquiry table. Major Henry Leonard, U. S. M. C., the judge advocate, and the three members of the board completed the impressive sitting. At one point in his testimony Lieutenant Adams and an orderly enacted the struggle with Sutton in the courtroom. The witness chair was removed and they both lay prone upon the floor.

Mr. Davis succeeded in bringing out a number of discrepancies in Adams's testimony compared with his version of the tragedy at the former investigation, when the board of inquiry found that Sutton died by his own hand.

A ride to the marine camp in an automobile with Sutton and two officers of marines, Lieutenants Urey and Osterman, an altercation between Sutton and the witness and a deferred encounter when the senior officer interfered as the automobile was stopped short of the camp with the intention of avoiding being caught returning after hours; a later accidental meeting of the witness and Sutton on the border of the woods near the barracks and the fight between the two men, with Sutton armed with a revolver in either hand and firing five shots, the last of which he directed at his own head while lying on the ground—these were the points in Lieutenant Adams's testimony. The witness said he had risen from the prostrate Sutton whom he believed to be exhausted, and stood a few feet back of him when he saw Sutton raise his right hand and fire a bullet into his own head.

Mrs. Sutton's counsel said that Miss Margaret Stewart of Pittsburgh, the young woman who was with Sutton most of the evening before he met his death, might be called as a witness. Her testimony would be material in refuting the theory of suicide, he said. Miss Stewart is now in Canada, but Mr. Davis said her father had recently gone to see her and talked over the advisability of her returning and testifying.

DEMOCRATS READY FOR THE CAMPAIGN

Congressional Committee Reorganized at Washington.

Washington, July 20.—The following officers were elected at a meeting last night of the Democratic congressional campaign committee:

Chairman, James T. Floyd, Missouri; first vice chairman, W. E. Finley, South Carolina; second vice chairman, A. Mitchell Palmer, Pennsylvania; secretary, Lincoln Dixon, Indiana; sergeant-at-arms, J. J. Slinnot, Virginia.

The plan of campaign was outlined with complete harmony, it was said. Chairman Lloyd took this as an omen of what may be expected in the next campaign. He asserted that information he has received from all parts of the country indicated that the Democrats are more hopeful of electing a Democratic house than they have been for many years.

Mr. Lloyd said the committee had agreed to "get busy" immediately, and that with the appointment of the principal working committees, the Democratic end of the next campaign would be fairly under way. The committee, he said, would proceed in a business-like manner and was prepared to give the opposition the most stubborn fight in its history.

He Implicated Comrades.

Chicago, July 20.—Tony Baffa, who was recently held to the grand jury on a charge of having murdered Giuseppe Fellipelli, a grocer made a written statement to the police confessing to the killing and implicating a number of companions. Three of the men whose names were mentioned by Baffa were arrested. Two others were arrested with Baffa at the time of the murder. According to the police Baffa said that Fellipelli was killed because of a refusal to comply with a demand for money.

Came Down in the Water.

Calais, France, July 20.—Hubert Latham, the aeronaut, attempted to fly across the English channel. When he had covered but a part of the distance, his aeroplane became unmanageable and plunged into the sea. Latham was picked up by the French destroyer Harpon and was brought to Calais.

Making Good Progress.

Mankato, Minn., July 20.—Traversing excellent roads from Minneapolis to Mankato, a distance of 132 miles, the Glidden tourists arrived here two hours ahead of their schedule. The tourists left today for Fort Dodge, Ia.

Resorting to Peaceful Means.

Butler, Pa., July 20.—The striking employees of the Standard Steel Car company have abandoned acts tending toward inciting violence, and will endeavor to bring about a termination of the strike by legal and quiet means.

The Want Advertisements Are "Humanizing"

When more people come to use and answer Want and For Sale Advertisements, more people will know each other—

MORE PEOPLE WITH MUTUAL INTEREST WILL MEET—

more people will find channels and opportunities for reciprocal service. Truly, the Daily Republican Want Ads are "humanizing" people—shaming away the scorn of small things, the scorn of "bar-gaining," of exchanging useful but not used things for useful and usable ones.

HABIT

YOU HAVE probably not yet formed enough "habits." It is likely that you would find the "ad-answering habit" a dividend paying one—and one that would never lure you far away from the best thrift-creed ever devised.

A habit is usually formed through yielding to natural inclination. The ad-answering habit will have to be cultivated—perhaps against present inclination, and through an effort of will.

You are not in the habit of saying "impossible" are you?
